Story Faction Wins Stormy D. A. R. Fight Centering Around Magazine Controversy

MISS FLORENCE G. FINCH, chairman of the magazine committee of the D. A. R.

J. J. Estey, Annie Head, W. B. Howe, of New Hampshire; G. T. Page, of Illinois; G. M. Baker, Annie C. Ford, Margaret DeWolf and Miss Florence Finch, of New York.

As the nominations were closed last night, Mrs. Harvey E. White, of New York, on a point of personal privilege presented to the president general, Mrs. William Cumming Story, on behalf of the various chapters, a handsome chair. The chair is for the personal use of the president general.

John A. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the American Institute, opened the evening session with an earnest plea for patriotism and an appeal to the members of the D. A. R. to use their potential power and stand behind the American Society.

The speaker closed with a denunciation of hyphenism.

Start Political Battle.

The first real political battle of the congress broke yesterday with the rendering of the report of Miss Florence G. Finch, chairman of the magazine committee. The report precipitated a heated verbal controversy between the Story-Guernsey factions and ended in a complete victory for the Story faction. The report of Miss Finch, in which she did not mention the number of magazines published, was read and adopted unanimously. The next order of business was taken and was almost completed when Mrs. Guernsey demanded recognition on the floor with a request to know the number of magazines published.

Mrs. Story replied that the question could be answered by the chairman of the committee, Miss Finch. Miss Finch first replied that the information could be found in the report of the treasurer general.

At this time Mrs. Thayer, of California, while Mrs. Guernsey remained standing and waiting an answer, put a motion allowing delegates seated in the rear of the hall to move forward. The motion was carried after a sharp debate involving many members seated in different parts of the hall.

Miss Finch then informed Mrs. Guernsey that 487 copies of the magazine were sent to subscribers. Mrs. Guernsey, reading from the report of the treasurer general, asked information as to several thousand subscribers, who had not paid their subscription.

After a verbal passage lasting several minutes, Mrs. Guernsey put a motion to prohibit the mailing of the magazine to subscribers in arrears. This precipitated another verbal battle in which members of the floor joined. It was asserted that such action would be illegal. Several amendments to Mrs. Guernsey's original motion were put and rejected. The original motion, by a majority vote, was then laid on the table as was a motion injected at this time that the members remove their hats.

Wants Window Opened.

Mrs. Story closed the incident by declaring, "There is in charge of the D. A. R. magazine an intelligent committee capable of intelligently directing the work of the magazine. It is a distressing condition when an outsider attempts to govern this committee."

Immediately after this clash Mrs. Story asked that the window be opened as she wanted more air.

When the members of the twenty-fifth congress gathered for the afternoon session there was a feeling of tension in the air following the morning announcement that the report of the magazine committee would be the opening business.

The feeling was brought about by the recent resignation of Miss Natalie Sumner Lincoln as editor. Miss Lincoln resigned when her action in making a report to the national board was construed as an attack on the chairman of the committee.

The verbal clash in reality was brought about by the morning report of the treasurer general, in which it was shown the magazine had incurred a deficit of $8,684.71, and the statement in the report of the chaplain general, Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, in which she said:

"Do not let us forget that when the national board looks for a report of our magazine from the editor and the business management they are in accordance with our law."

"The censure of the board should come when they neglect to carry out the law as laid down in the constitution, not when trying to live up to it. The only party, if we must have partisanship, should be to uphold the constitution that has carried us through the years and made this society one of the most successfully organized in the world."

Immediately following this Mrs. Story said: "Without criticism of any report that has been made here today, I want to state that there is no business manager of the magazine and that the only salaried officer is the editor."

Miss Lincoln Is Silent.

It was expected that Miss Lincoln would ask recognition on the floor to present her side of the initial controversy, but this opportunity was not presented on request.

The afternoon session was opened by Miss Nelda Humphrey, a grand opera singer, who gave several solos. She was encored repeatedly, and as the last number, rendered the old lullaby song, "Little Alabama Moon," in the words and tone used by her mother in singing the song when Miss Humphrey was a very small child.

The report of the Memorial Continental Hall, of which Mrs. William Cumming Story is chairman, was read by Mrs. Robert Lansing, secretary of the committee.

Mrs. Lansing gave a resume of the history of the erection of the hall from the meeting on October 15, 1910, when the subject was first broached by Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, until the time of the first meeting in the hall in 1915.

In a short address following the report of Mrs. Lansing, Mrs. Story told the members that the first money for Memorial Continental Hall was raised at a luncheon given at Mount Monticello and during the present congress the members of the D. A. R. would be asked to endorse a movement to have the Federal government purchase the site of the home of Thomas Jefferson.

Introduces Lady Aberdeen.

Representative Davis told the members that the long agitated bill looking into the putting into book at the Government Printing Office of the records of the heroes of the Revolution would be enacted this session of Congress. He also said that a bill to make the Star Spangled Banner the official emblem of the United States would be passed. He closed with the assertion that a bill also would be passed preventing effectively any desecration of the flag.

Mrs. Story then asked that she be permitted to interrupt the proceedings to introduce an unexpected guest of honor, Lady Aberdeen.

Lady Aberdeen thanked the D. A. R. and through them the women throughout the United States, for the ready response to the appeal of the war sufferers of Europe.

She gave a short history of the work of the International Council of Women and urged the D. A. R. as a national society.

city, to become members of that organization. "After the war," she said, "this great body of women will furnish the mothering of the world will be so sorely in need of."

Miss Janet Richards, who attended the quinquennial congress of the International Council of Women in Rome in 1904, was granted permission to speak further on the council. Miss Richards told the members of the great work of the president of the council, Lady Aberdeen.

The morning session of the congress attained the dramatic yesterday when Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, chaplain general, began her report. Mrs. Lockwood has been decorated as a founder of the D. A. R., but her right to this title has been recently assailed.

White-haired, slightly stooped, but active and alert, the appearance of Mrs. Lockwood provoked a storm of applause. She waved a large bouquet of flowers in response. She made no response to the attacks of her right to wear the emblem of a founder.

Pages rushed forward with bouquets of flowers when she concluded with the question:

"I wonder whether there is another beside myself who never missed a single congress since the first one."

Mrs. Frank Foster Greenwalt, State regent of the District and chairman of the auditing committee of the national body, in her report yesterday stated that the actual cost of her committee's work was 80 cents.

Voting Today's Feature.

While it is expected that the attention of the delegates will be occupied mostly with the voting during the morning session, several addresses and reports are on the program.

Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman, chaplain of the Senate, will open the meeting at 10 o'clock with scripture and prayer. He will be followed by a reading of the minutes and the reports of the committees on Real Estate, by Mrs. William D. Sherrerd, chairman, and Conservation, Mrs. Ernest A. Allan, chairman.

"Conservation" will be the subject of an address by Miss Lydia M. Holmes, member of the National Conservation Committee from Michigan. Mrs. William B. Neff will speak on "Conservation of the Home," and Mrs. James G. Dunning on "Patriotic Education."

Mrs. Martha S. Gielow, founder of the Southern Industrial Education Association, also is on the program for an address. The morning session will be closed with a report on "Immigrants' Guide to the United States," by Miss Alice Louise McDuffee, chairman of the committee.

During the afternoon session, which will be convened at 2 o'clock, reports of the following committees will be made by the chairmen: Preservation of Historic Spots, by Mrs. Robert T. Reinman; Historical Research and Preservation of Records, Mrs. William A. Smoot; Seals and Arms, Mrs. James H. Campbell; Insignia, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook; To Prevent Desecration of the Flag, Mrs. George B. Macfarlane, and Children of the American Revolution, Mrs. Daniel Lothrop, founder.

HAITI BREAKS LOOSE AGAIN.

Another Revolution Threatens, Following Dissolution of Senate.

Port au Prince, Haiti, April 18.—Another revolution in Haiti is imminent. The crisis has been developed by the action of President Dantigneny in dissolving the senate and creating a council of the government to draft a new constitution in conformity with the latest treaty between the United States and Haiti. Strong opposition has developed, the president refusing to compromise.

Gaby Deslys Out of a Job.

Philadelphia, April 18.—Poor Gaby Deslys is out of a job. It is not because she isn't a good drawing card. But she asks too high a salary. Time was when Gaby drew down her $4,000 a week as star of the Dillingham Revue. "Stop! Look! Listen!" That, however, was only for twenty weeks. Then her contract expired. The management could not see enough prosperity ahead to continue Gaby's contract, so when the twenty weeks were up, the show closed.

TURKS PRESS BRITISH HARD.

London Hears Mesopotamian Relief Force Was Repulsed.

London, April 18.—Close upon semi-official hints that all is not well with the main British Mesopotamian army bottled up by the Turks in Kut-el-Amara, and with the relief forces trying to break through the Turkish positions to come to Gen. Townsend's aid, came a statement today from the official press bureau reporting that powerful Turkish counterattacks last night compelled the British to withdraw their lines from 800 to 100 yards on the southern bank of the Tigris.

Constantinople, however, reports officially that Turkish reconnaissance parties defeated a British detachment in the neighborhood of Suez Canal, putting it to flight, after killing five men.
